

FACULTY ANNOUNCEMENT

August 2006

Simon Tay '86 to serve as charter member of Yale University's Center for Environmental Law & Policy

Yale University's Center for Environmental Law & Policy has appointed Associate Professor Simon Tay to serve as a charter member of its External Advisory Board. The Yale Center directed by Professor Daniel Esty, focuses on innovative interdisciplinary approaches to policy making by bridging science and policy. The Center has produced an environmental performance index for 133 countries as well as research on global environmental governance. Associate Professor Tay pioneered the international environmental law course at the NUS and holds a number of international appointments on environmental issues, as well as chairing the National Environment Agency of Singapore.