A law scholarship has been set up in memory of Singaporean Lo Hwei Yen, who was killed in a terrorist attack in Mumbai last year.

The Lo Hwei Yen scholarship, will be administered by the late Ms Lo’s alma mater the National University of Singapore's Faculty of Law.

The initial endowment has been pledged by the late Ms Lo’s law firm, Stephenson Harwood.

Martin Green, the firm’s managing partner felt that the memorial scholarship provides a “fitting and lasting tribute to a much loved and well respected member of the team.”

The firm also hopes that its recipients would make an enduring impression on the people around them, just as the late Ms Low had.

The student selected for the scholarship will receive a minimum amount of $6000 which will be used towards tuition fees.
