New Publication- Reading Law in Singapore edited by Michael Hor and Tang Hang Wu

Faculty of Law congratulates Professor Michael Hor and Associate Professor Tang Hang Wu for their recently published edited volume, entitled Reading Law in Singapore. Targeted at potential students who may be interested in reading law at NUS, the book provides succinct overviews of key areas of law and is written to be accessible to laypersons. The contributors are mainly from NUS with a few from SMU. Apart from its easy-reading narrative style and useful information on the specific topics, there are references to classical and popular culture which will no doubt make the book all the more accessible to its target audience.
