Teaching Positions in NUS Faculty of Law

Job Description:

The Faculty of Law at the National University of Singapore invites applications for full-time academic appointments at all levels. We seek candidates who are committed to excellence in research and teaching. Applications in all areas are welcome. At present, we are especially interested in scholars who specialise in (1) Conflict of Laws or Private International Law or (2) Law and Economics.

About NUS:

NUS Law School is the premier law school in Singapore and also widely regarded as Asia's foremost centre for legal research. NUS Law School has an international research active faculty of over 60 members and more than 1200 undergraduate and postgraduate students. The Faculty is committed to research and regularly publishes books and monographs and articles in leading journals in Singapore and abroad.

Apart from the LL.B. degree, NUS offers a number of degrees which include the following: law and business, law and economics, law and life sciences and law and public policy, the LL.M. and the Ph.D.. Together with New York University School of Law, the law school also offers highly distinctive and innovative programmes such as the LL.B. (NUS) and LL.M. (NYU) concurrent degree programme and the NYU@NUS programme which allows students from around the world to earn LL.M. degrees from both a leading U.S. institution and a leading Asian law school.

The strength of the NUS Law School is seen in the broad and diverse range of subjects that it offers. While the subjects range from the theoretical to the practical, the overriding objective is to provide students with a liberal education through the medium of law that will allow them to maximise their potential to the fullest degree.
