SEMINAR SERIES 2014/2015:

WIPO Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) Options for Intellectual Property and Technology Disputes

By Ms Eun A (Jessica) Park
WIPO Arbitration and Mediation Center, Singapore

17 SEPTEMBER 2014, WEDNESDAY, 4.30PM TO 5.30PM
EXECUTIVE SEMINAR ROOM, BLOCK B, LEVEL 3

ABSTRACT

As IP has become an essential business asset and is being exploited on an international level (e.g., cross-border licensing agreements), there is an increasing demand for efficient dispute resolution mechanisms that match business requirements: private, flexible procedures to settle international disputes more quickly and less costly without disrupting commercial relationships.

As part of the World Intellectual Property Organization (WIPO), a UN specialized agency for intellectual property (IP), the WIPO Arbitration and Mediation Center has been offering ADR options for the resolution of IP and commercial disputes between private parties since 1994, based in Geneva, with a further office in Singapore.

This session will cover the WIPO Center’s ADR options especially suitable for international IP and technology disputes as well as advantages of ADR compared to court litigation. It will also share the WIPO Center’s case experience and the recent developments including the new WIPO Rules that took effect in June 2014 and a newly introduced scheme tailored for disputes involving patents in standards, including fair, reasonable and non-discriminatory (FRAND) licensing terms.
