

YOUTH AT INTERNATIONAL ENVIRONMENTAL CONFERENCES: THE FIRST AND LAST GENERATION?

THURSDAY
20 AUGUST 2020
3.30PM TO 6.00PM
SINGAPORE TIME (GMT+8)

Panellists

Cheryl Cadeline Lee
Singapore Youth for Climate Action
(UNFCCC COP25, 2019)

Kate Yeo
BYOBottleSG
(UN Environment Oslo Act #ForNature Global Online Forum)

Don Sandev Ferdinando
Yale-NUS College
(UNFCCC COP25, 2019)

Karl Png
Singapore Youth Voices for Biodiversity
(UN CBD OEWG2, 2020)

Priscilla Tan
University of Oxford
(MSc Nature, Society and Environmental Governance)
(UNFCCC COP25, 2019)

Moderators

Melissa Low
Research Fellow
Energy Studies Institute, NUS
(8 UNFCCC COPs)

Eric Bea
Researcher
Asia-Pacific Centre for Environmental Law
NUS Law
(UNFCCC COP24, 2018; COP25, 2019)

UN Conferences of the Parties (COP) dealing with climate change and the environment have evolved significantly over the last two decades. Today, these annual conferences bring together a wide range of experts and stakeholders to call for more ambitious climate action. To paraphrase the CEO of the World Bank, Kristalina Georgieva, we are clearly the last generation that can change course on various global environmental issues, but we are also the first generation to suffer its consequences.

With the rise of the Fridays for Future movement, international environmental conferences increasingly seek out the youth voice. This panel discussion brings together youth who have had experience and involvement in environmental conferences, representing the breadth of international environmental issues in today's world.

To register for this programme, go to <https://bit.ly/3hexS8m> or scan QR code.

Registration closes 18 August 2020.

Please email Nur Fazirah at rescle@nus.edu.sg for enquiries.