

MANAGING EDITOR, ASIAN JOURNAL OF COMPARATIVE LAW

The Asian Journal of Comparative Law (AsJCL) is the leading forum for research and discussion of the law and legal systems of Asia. It embraces work that is theoretical, empirical, socio-legal, doctrinal or comparative that relates to one or more Asian legal systems, as well as work that compares one or more Asian legal systems with non-Asian systems. The Journal seeks articles which display an intimate knowledge of Asian legal systems, and thus provides a window into the way they work in practice. For more information, please click here.

RESPONSIBILITIES

Reporting to the Editors-in-Chief, the Managing Editor will be involved in the overall management of the production of the Journal, including correspondence with authors, liaising with Cambridge University Press on production matters, making initial editorial judgments about submissions to the Journal, engaging in, as well as overseeing, copy editing (including managing other copy editors), managing the Journal's social media presence, compiling reports of the Journal's activities, and interfacing with the Journal's Subject and Book Review Editors, and all other relevant duties as requested by the Editors-in-Chief.

REQUIREMENTS

The ideal candidate will possess a good LLB, and preferably Master's degree (LLM or MA), be well organized and meticulous. The candidate should have a strong interest in legal scholarship and legal publishing, especially about Asia. Prior publishing experience (as an author or editor) would be an asset, though not necessarily required.
