ABOUT THE SEMINAR

The economic losses triggered by COVID-19 prompted the implementation of an unprecedented array of public measures. As economies are shifting from the emergency to the recovery phase, a range of new initiatives have been launched to stimulate market-based mechanisms to finance businesses.

Drawing from his first-hand experience in law reforms, Giuliano examines the main trends driving post-pandemic economic recovery to provide the audience with knowledge over current regulatory debates and impending challenges. With particular focus on asset-based lending and factoring, the seminar will cover the following areas:

1. Credit products: structures and current applications.
2. Role of regulation: licensing regimes and prudential requirements.
3. The role of technology: regulatory implications and future developments.

ABOUT THE CENTRE FOR BANKING & FINANCE LAW

The Centre for Banking & Finance Law (CBFL) at the Faculty of Law, National University of Singapore, seeks to generate scholarship and promote thinking about the vibrancy, robustness and soundness of the banking sector, capital markets and other financial services. Through the research our scholars undertake and the events we organise, we seek to create and share knowledge, to engage stakeholders in an exchange of ideas, and to enhance the appreciation of legal and regulatory issues. We aim to bring greater theoretical and analytical clarity to these issues, to examine their policy impact, and to be a catalyst for ideas on how to improve banking and financial systems at the national, regional and global levels.
