

Letter from the Dean

April 2022

Dear Members of the NUS Law Community

The rule of law, it is sometimes said, is like oxygen. Easily taken for granted — but quickly noticed in its absence.

That's true at the national as well as international level. Recent events in Ukraine are a reminder of the importance of norms governing behaviour. For smaller countries like Singapore, a rules-based order is not a luxury but an "existential issue". This explains Singapore's strong language about Russia's actions, as well as our willingness to impose sanctions against a much bigger country.

Domestically, the rule of law contributes to the stability and prosperity that we have come to expect; internationally, it is the alternative to the rule of the jungle, where might makes right.

These questions are on my mind not only because of events in Europe, but because of the pandemic. Over the past two years, our ability to welcome students from abroad and send our own students on exchange has been severely curtailed. Happily, that situation is now changing. Earlier this semester, a few dozen NUS Law students boarded flights even as their counterparts arrived at Changi Airport.

Professor Simon Chesterman (Dean, NUS Law) delivering the welcome speech at the Dean's List & Awards Ceremony held on 24 February 2022

Exchanges are important not only because they are enriching for the students who travel. They also help build global understanding, connecting individuals from different cultures and traditions in a way that can also help bridge differences between countries.

For that reason, one of my fund-raising priorities in recent years has been the NUS Law Student Support Fund, intended to help ensure that students can take advantage of the opportunities we offer without regard to financial circumstance. Above and beyond the ability to cover fees and living expenses in Singapore, we want the most meritorious students to be able to go on exchange, to participate in international competitions. If you are able to help us in this area, you'll find information about how to do so at the back of this letter.

Offering a rich legal education to a diverse and inclusive student body starts with getting them into law school in the first place. Last year, we piloted a programme in which students who were in the top five percent of their junior college who applied to NUS Law would be automatically short-listed for our written test and interview. This year, we are expanding that number to the top ten percent.

Rest assured that this will not exclude anyone from consideration. We are merely opening the doors a little wider, interviewing and testing a slightly larger group who will all compete on the same level playing field. Particularly at a time when there is much discussion about the sustainability of legal careers, we hope that it will also encourage those with a true passion or calling for the law to join us.

I do hope you enjoy this eleventh annual letter, a tradition that I launched in 2012 with a simple message on my own letterhead. The length and vibrancy of this edition is testimony to the achievements of my colleagues and our students and their impact on Singapore, the region, and the world. And it gives me hope for the rule of law, even if we must sometimes be reminded of its importance and its fragility.

Leadership Renewal

As I commenced my fourth term as Dean, we refreshed the leadership team.

With effect from 1 July 2021, Wayne Courtney assumed the role of Vice Dean for Academic Affairs and Undergraduate Studies while Arif Jamal took on the role of Vice Dean for Graduate Studies, succeeding former Vice Dean for Academic Affairs, David Tan

Wayne joined NUS Law in 2015, and was promoted to full Professor in 2020. In addition to being a leading expert on the law of contract, he previously served as an Associate Dean in the Faculty of Law at the University of Sydney, and practised commercial law at a leading Australian law firm.

For his part, Arif now oversees the graduate programmes at NUS Law, including the various LLM programmes and the newly launched Juris Doctor (JD) programme. His own research focuses on law and religion, especially with reference to political theory and law in Muslim contexts. He is also the Editor-in-Chief of the Asian Journal of Comparative Law.

David, who served as Vice Dean for Academic Affairs since 2015, brought a strategic eye to our academic offerings, enhanced the compulsory modules while offering a rich and diverse array of electives, reviewed our class of honours for the LLB, and recruited some leading visitors to NUS Law. Working with Gary Bell, he shepherded in the new LLM in International Arbitration and Dispute Resolution. He also led a review of our teaching excellence initiatives — including enhancing the faculty-level awards, developing our teaching seminars, and mentoring our Sheridan Fellows. Most recently, David oversaw the design and launch of the new JD, which welcomed the inaugural cohort of students in August 2021. I'm enormously grateful to David for his many years of service to NUS Law.

Vice Dean for Student Life and Global Relations, Eleanor Wong '85, extended her term. Eleanor took office in 2015 and has transformed our approach to career services, broadening and deepening the opportunities for students to develop professional experience while at law school through initiatives including TalentConnect and Attorney Assessment. She has also established the Exchange Plus Programme, which now allows our students to spend their fourth year of the LLB to pursue an LLM at selected partner institutions.

Damian Chalmers has also extended his term as Vice Dean for Research. Damian assumed his role in January 2019, bringing a wealth of experience including previously serving as Head of the London School of Economics and Political Science's European Institute, and Director of its Jean Monnet Centre of Excellence. In addition to overseeing our expanding research activities, including our various research centres, he has played a key role in strengthening and expanding our doctoral programme (which remains under his portfolio). He also oversaw the revisions to our website, working closely with Elizabeth Chua.

Leadership

For the past two years, the Faculty Search and Promotion and Tenure Committees have been chaired by Jeffrey Pinsler SC and Kumaralingam Amirthalingam respectively. I am therefore very pleased that they will be succeeded by Ernest Lim '02 (Chair, Faculty Search Committee) and Ho Hock Lai '89 (Chair, Faculty Promotion and Tenure Committee).

Umakanth Varottil PhD '10 served as the inaugural Director of the NUS Law Academy and of Graduate Studies from July 2018 to June 2021. Ernest Lim '02 is one of the co-authors of the "Legal Opinion on Directors' Responsibilities and Climate Change under Singapore Law", the first opinion of its kind in Singapore to demonstrate that directors have a duty to consider and address climate-related risks. This year, two NUS Law alumni were appointed to the programme – Samuel Teo '21 and Ong Kye Jing '21. This follows their recent accreditation as SIMI Level 1 Accredited Mediators under the SIMI Credentialing Scheme.

Student Life

It has been a tradition for the graduating class of NUS Law to curate and stage a musical production — both as a swan song to their years in school, and to raise funds for charity. Due to the evolving COVID-19 pandemic, the Class of 2021's performance was recorded and premiered on YouTube on 29 May 2021. Law IV 2021: Simple Majority is a musical that consisted of light-hearted and dark parts where lawyers and their clients are unwittingly forced to survive a twisted game show. Revenue collected from ticket sales went to the selected beneficiary, TOUCH Community Services. Law IV: Simple Majority is available for viewing from https://bit.ly/lawiv2021.

Service to the Community

Centre for Pro Bono & Clinical Legal Education

Congratulations to Tan Yean San '23, for winning the 2021 Outstanding Court Volunteer (Student Category) Award issued by the Supreme Court, State Courts and Family Justice Courts. The Outstanding Court Volunteer Award recognises individuals who have contributed significantly as committed volunteers with the State Courts and Family Justice Courts.

Yean San received this award for the fantastic work she did under the State Courts Student Representatives Programme (SCSRP), which is a Singapore Institute of Legal Education approved pro bono project run by the Centre for Pro Bono and Clinical Legal Education (CPBCLE) in collaboration with the State Courts. The SCSRP provides the vital service of helping disadvantaged litigants-in-persons (LIPs) in the Community Justice and Tribunals Division of the State Courts. Typically, LIPs require assistance from court volunteers in applying for remedies under the Protection from Harassment Act or Community Disputes Resolution Act. NUS Law students involved in the SCSRP are supervised by Benny Tan '12, Deputy Director of CPBCLE.

Besides completing core tasks of assisting LIPs under the SCSRP, Yean San was also appointed a Senior Representative and took on the additional responsibilities of managing the cohort of student volunteers, recruiting new student volunteers as well as training and supervising her juniors.

"I would definitely recommend more NUS Law students to join SCSRP (or any pro bono project in general). I learnt a lot of soft skills which are not usually taught in the classroom – how to communicate effectively with members of the public about the law, what questions should be asked, and how to go about asking them, what information is required to draft the LIPs' claims etc. Your ability to handle LIPs as well as your general grasp of the relevant law and legal processes will also improve over time as you gain experience.

Most importantly, there is a strong sense of purpose when you are able to apply your legal knowledge to real life situations and help people."

- Tan Yean San '23

For any pro bono or clinical legal education enquiries, please contact CPBCLE at probono@nus.edu.sg.

Alumni Relations & Development

As we adapted to yet another year of living with the pandemic, the achievements of our alumni were a great source of encouragement and pride to all of us at NUS Law, spurring us on as we strive to provide the best legal education possible to our students. Another prominent alumnus, Minister Desmond Lee Ti-Seng '01, received the Distinguished Alumni Service Award for his outstanding contributions to public service and his commitment to the betterment of the society.

Nisha also won the Global Competition Review's Global Dealmaker of the Year Award.

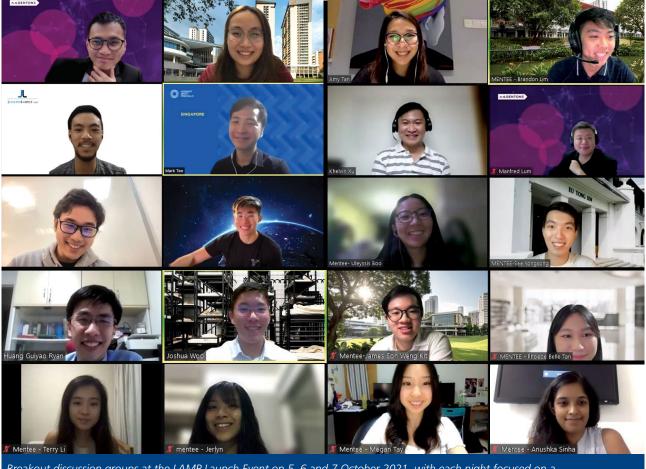

NUS Law alumni were again featured prominently in ALB's 40 Under 40 List 2021, which recognised 40 of the most accomplished lawyers across Asia, who are below the age of 40. Included in this list are Chew Jie Min Jasmine '05, Eunice Yao '06, Penny Koo '06 (who was also a Finalist in the Singapore Corporate Counsel Association's Chief Legal Officer Awards), Lauren Tang Dip Sing '07, Pardeep Singh Khosa'08, Amy Tan '11, Keith Han '11, Tang Chong Jun Dip Sing '09, and Mahardikha Sardjana LLM '12.

It was heartening to note that throughout the challenges brought on by the pandemic, our alumni continued to demonstrate their support for NUS Law and our students by giving of their time and expertise as mentors, adjunct professors, coaches for moot competitions, speakers at our career talks and advisors to student groups such as the Pro Bono Group.

The current Academic Year 2021/2022 marks the tenth anniversary of the Law Alumni Mentor Programme (LAMP), which has grown from strength to strength. The numbers shown in the chart are a testament to the generosity and unwavering support of our alumni who have always been eager to share their experiences and advice. With your help, we have hit a new high this year with 237 mentors who have volunteered to help 245 first year, second year, Masters and Juris Doctor students.

Since its inception in 2012 with just 130 mentors and 84 students, the programme has expanded steadily to meet the growing demand and we are extremely grateful to all of you who have responded to the call to volunteer. To date, more than 1,200 alumni have served as mentors to 1,500 mentees.

Breakout discussion groups at the LAMP Launch Event on 5, 6 and 7 October 2021, with each night focused on a different practice area

Our alumni and other supporters also made important financial contributions to support future generations of NUS Law students.

Walter Woon '81 set up the Woon Chow Tat Memorial Bursary in memory of his late grandfather. The bursary will assist financially disadvantaged students with the cost of law school. In addition, Tan Cheng Han '87 made a donation to endow the Tan Hock Kim Prize in Advanced Contract Law in memory of his father.

Various donors supported the Ahmad Ibrahim Prize in Islamic Law, which was championed by the Muslim Law Practice Committee of the Law Society of Singapore. Established in memory of Professor Ahmad Ibrahim LLD '65, who was Singapore's first Attorney-General and who contributed significantly to the development of Islamic Law in Singapore, the prize will reward the top performing student in the module Islamic Law with effect from this Academic Year.

The Joseph Liow Prize in Construction Law was established with a gift from alumnus Joseph Liow '92, a long-time practitioner in this area of the law. In addition, Rajah & Tan Singapore LLP made a donation to set up the Rajah & Tann Singapore Prize in Corporate Deals, which is a compulsory module for second year law students.

The Class of 1992 is hoping to organise a physical reunion in the second half of 2022 to celebrate their 30th anniversary. If you are from this class, or if your class is celebrating a milestone reunion, do update your particulars here: https://law1.nus.edu.sg/alumni/alumni_update_particulars.asp so that we can keep you informed of events and news. To find out more about the support provided for reunions, please contact Jo-Ann Chan '97 (joann.chan@nus.edu.sg; 6601 2248).

I cannot overstate how much our alumni have contributed to the successes of NUS Law. Your achievements inspire and challenge us all, raising our profile and establishing our reputation. The opportunities you create for our students, through advice, internships, and employment are what transform these young men and women into lawyers. Your financial support makes possible our mission of being one of the very best law schools in the world — while making sure that no deserving student is left behind.

This year, we continue to direct your attention to the NUS Law Student Support Fund which is intended to enable all of our students to make the most of the opportunities available without being held back by finances. Since its launch in 2017, financial aid has been awarded from this fund to help needy students with tuition fees, and to enable students to participate in enriching programmes and activities. If you would like to make a contribution, you may use the attached donation form, or scan the QR code on the right to make an online gift. Alternatively, if you would like to discuss any of the ways in which you might advance the mission of NUS Law, please feel free contact Jo-Ann Chan '97 (joann.chan@nus.edu.sg; 6601 2248) or myself directly.

Giving to the Next Generation: NUS Law Student Support Fund

Given the rising cost of a legal education (tuition alone now stands at $12,650 per year) and the steady rise in the number of bursary applications each year (around 10% of our students currently receive some kind of financial aid), it comes as no surprise that student support is an important part of our fund-raising.

The NUS Law Student Support Fund is used to support financially disadvantaged students, student learning and student activities at NUS Law, enabling all our students to develop to their full potential regardless of financial circumstances. The Dean will have discretion to allocate funds where they are most needed for the greatest benefit of our students.

Thank you for your generosity.
Your gift will benefit deserving students and support meaningful learning opportunities at NUS Law.
